Catholic Publisher Settles $125 Million Lawsuit, Removes Books from Sale.

The owner of TAN Books, Saint Benedict Press, has settled a $125 million copyright infringement lawsuit, withdrawing some of its most important Catholic titles from sale. The reason: Baronius Press had filed what is possibly the largest ever lawsuit against a Catholic publisher for copyright infringement, false copyright claims and deceptive trade practices. Baronius claimed Saint Benedict Press was liable for damages of well over $100 million involving copyrights owned by numerous religious orders and Baronius Press, court documents reveal.

The case started in 2016. It initially focused on the English edition of Fundamentals of Catholic Dogma, by Ludwig Ott, which Tan had advertised as one of their most important titles. Baronius alleged that in addition to infringing copyright, Tan had knowingly sold customers an edition containing doctrinal and translation errors. Subsequently, several other classic titles including works by the renowned theologian Reginald Garrigou Lagrange were added to the complaint.

Baronius Press is a British publisher with a reputation for publishing editions of pre-Vatican II Catholic titles such as the Roman Breviary, Douay-Rheims and Knox Bibles. Last month it announced that high demand caused several titles including its 1962 Missal to run out of stock. Since settlement of the lawsuit, TAN has withdrawn certain titles from sale, while Baronius has recently announced it has exclusive rights to publish these titles.

In the afternoon of May 9, a sacrilegious theft occurred in Santa Teresa parish church in San Gavino Monreale, Southern Sardinia, Italy. A young man opened the tabernacle stole about one hundred consecrated particles and a container for what is described as communion of celiacs. Surveillance cameras show how he forced the tabernacle, stole the hosts, leaving the container empty, stole a candle holder, a few euros from an offering box and ate the hosts. The parish-priest, Father Elvio Tuveri, turned this into a case of – quote – “new poverty increasingly present in our territory” presuming that the thief stole the hosts – quote – “out of hunger.”

“new poverty increasingly present in our territory”

Dear Father Elvio,

Have you considered running a soup kitchen or a homeless shelter for the “new poverty” in your city? No? Why not? If you are unable to finance this with discretionary church funds, try approaching several of the numerous hotels including the FIVE STAR HOTELS located in San Gavino Monreale.

TAN books should have had someone in China publish the books. China does not consider itself bound by copyright laws.

Baronius Press has settled a lawsuit against Saint Benedict Press/TAN Books

As some of you will be aware, before the Copyright Act of 1976, the United States required that creative works be registered as a prerequisite to copyright protection, and a number of works entered the public domain due to failure to renew the registration on time; however, the Uruguay Round Agreements Act of 1994 restored copyright as of 1996 in a number of foreign works which were then in the public domain in the United States, but protected in the source country.

As I hope all of you are aware, Saint Benedict Press/TAN Books is the publisher of many excellent Catholic titles, in many cases originally published in the UK or translated from foreign languages. Baronius Press has now reached out to a variety of foreign publishers and religious bodies and obtained exclusive rights in the United States to publish, among other books, the following TAN Books titles:

- Fundamentals of Catholic Dogma by Ludwig Ott
- This Tremendous Lover by Fr Eugene Boylan
- The Curé d'Ars by Abbé Francis Trochu
- Catholic Encyclopaedic Dictionary by Donald Attwater
- Holy Abandonment by Dom Vital Lehodey
- The Priest in Union with Christ by Réginald Garrigou-Lagrangé
- Christian Perfection and Contemplation by Réginald Garrigou-Lagrangé
- Our Savior and His Love for Us by Réginald Garrigou-Lagrangé
- Providence by Réginald Garrigou-Lagrangé
- Life Everlasting by Réginald Garrigou-Lagrangé
- Mother of the Saviour by Réginald Garrigou-Lagrangé
- The Three Ways of the Spiritual Life by Réginald Garrigou-Lagrangé
- Predestination by Réginald Garrigou-Lagrangé

In April 26, 2013, Baronius Press served notice on Saint Benedict Press to cease and desist publication of Fundamentals of Catholic Dogma, and they filed a lawsuit on September 29, 2016. Full details can be found in Baronius' second amended complaint of November 14, 2018.

The suit has now been settled out of court, and Baronius has made an announcement that the settlement paves the way for their publication of these titles to go forward.
